GOOD FOOTBALL AT MAKIKI

The Game was Fast but Both Sides Felt the Hot Weather.

The Scotch eleven and H. M. S. Icarus eleven met in a friendly game of association football at Makiki on Saturday. The weather was beautiful, if anything a little too warm for the soccer game. A fair crowd was in attendance and were treated to a good exhibition from start to finish.

The Icarus boys were first on the field, and engaged in a preliminary shoot for goal. On the arrival of the Scotch eleven, both teams were photographed together by Mr. Melvin of King Brothers.

A late start was the outcome of this, and the teams lined up at 4:35 as follows:
H. M. S. Icarus—Goal, Stead; backs, Ross, Stone; halves, Angus, Stiles, Thorp; forwards, McDonald, Hicks, Milne, Jeandron, Picheer.
Scotch Eleven—Goal, Fenwick; backs, McGill, R. Anderson; halves, Lennox, Bottomly, Craik; forwards, Munro, Kay, Boyle, Goudie, Fiddes.

Mr. Blackman officiated as referee and Messrs. Alger and Cumming acted as touch judges.
The Scotch team won the toss and chose to defend the Beretania goal, playing up-hill. Milne kicked off for the tars, who started with a will and for a time made things lively for the Scotch backs. A fine return by R. Anderson, however, relieved the pressure, and Fenwick in goal now felt more comfortable. Kay was conspicuous in leading a frontal attack on the sailors' goal, and by fine combination the Scotch front rank carried the ball well up the field, and Munro, passing to Boyle, enabled the latter player to draw first blood with a long oblique shot. Scotland, 1; Icarus, 0.

This slight reverse in fortune was not appreciated by the tars, who kicked off in a determined fashion and looked as if they meant business. A fine run down by the sailors proved fruitless, Jeandron missing the post in his parting shot.

From the goal kick the thistles again took up the running, Goudie and Fiddes taking the ball well up, and a good shot from Goudie almost found the mark. The sailors had not, as yet, properly settled down to their game and were not sure of themselves, the glaring sun no doubt having a disastrous effect on their play. Another attack on the tars' goal resulted in Fiddes putting through for Scotland with a swift shot from close in. Scotland, 2; Icarus, 0.

The tars seemed nettled at this reverse in fortune and considerable talk was indulged in by several of their players. They soon returned to center field, however, an again kicked off. Bottomly was instrumental in checking their career, and placed the ball well up to Boyle, who at once took up the running, and some fine passing by the Scotch front rank was seen at this stage.

The thistles were undoubtedly having the best of the game so far and were not long in again adding to their score, this time by Goudie with a fine shot. The tars seemed hopelessly out of it, and dependently returned to mid-field, where they again kicked off.

Give and take mid-field play followed, and the whistle sounded with the half-time score standing Scotland, 2; Icarus, 0. The five minutes' interval was gladly welcomed by the players, who seemed to be suffering considerably from the excessive heat, more especially the sturdy Jacks.

The whistle sounded for the re-start and Boyle soon kicked off for the thistles, who were now playing down-hill. A good run by the thistle front rank was cleverly checked by Ross, who was playing a sturdy game at back. From his return the sailors, by good manipulation, carried the ball well up and had no difficulty in beating the Scotch backs, but their parting effort was weak.

They still maintained the pressure, and soon their efforts were crowned by success, the ball glancing through off one of the Scotch backs. The sailors now were stimulated to further efforts, and showed a great improvement in their play during the first spell.

They played good football and were always dangerous, having many ineffective tries to add to their score. Fenwick was always safe and kept his goal intact on many occasions. Shouts for the sailors were now very common and of the heartiest description imaginable. The game at this stage was inclined to be fast despite the sweltering weather, and great efforts were made by both teams.

The Scotch front rank now had a turn at attacking, and rained in shot after shot only to be saved in brilliant fashion by Stead, who throughout played a faultless game. Shots from Goudie and Boyle looked dangerous, but Stead saved again and again.

Fiddes also had a grand shot for goal only to be sent to the same fate. Several corners were granted the Scotch team, but try as they liked they could not penetrate the sound defense of the visitors. From a corner by Lennox, Fiddes got on the ball and banged in a terrific shot which looked suspiciously like a goal, but was not granted. A re-awakening by the tars somewhat relieved matters, and from this time to the end they were always dangerous, and looked like scoring, but always failed, at the last moment experiencing very hard luck, one shot hitting the upright and glancing past. The whistle sounded soon after this and a very enjoyable and exciting game ended. Scotland, 3; Icarus, 1.
For the sailors, Stead, Ross, Stone, Stiles, Thorp, McDonald, Milne, Jeandron and Picheer all played well and carried a forlorn hope with great gusto and deliberation. For the thistles Bottomly, Kay, Fiddes and Boyle were most conspicuous.

THE BURNED DISTRICT.

Big Wooden and Brick Structure Being Erected.

Where once were the ruins of old Chinatown, in the so-called burned district, is springing up a new wooden town, composed principally of wooden structures, in which will be domiciled Asiatic tenants. Long rows of flimsylooking buildings are in the course of construction and others are contemplated, but much of the building in the future depends upon the action of the Legislature in the extension of the fire limits.

On sites where once stood tinder-box shacks are a number of brick affairs, some two stories in height, but most of them one story and arranged for store purposes only. A structure is soon to be built by P. Mendonca in the burned district which will cover three sides of a square.

In the preparations made for the construction of buildings space is being reserved for the extension of certain streets from the water front toward Kukui street, in accordance with the desire of the Public Works Department.

The effect of the scattering of the Asiatic business population is to be seen on Liliha, Kukui and School streets, flanking both sides of Nuuanu stream. Residences which were formerly occupied by white or native tenants are now used by Chinese and Japanese. Great three-tier structures have been built and now team with a busy population.
